Company Official Outlines Program

Launching its drilling program for this year, the Hudson's Bay-Markland Oil company will expend at least $250,000 for this purpose, according to an announcement by Glen M. Ruby, vice-president and western manager, on Saturday morning. The operations will be confined mainly to the eastern and southern parts of this province.

Twenty miles south of Beaman, on a site on section 23, township 17, range 18, west of the fourth meridian, the company will put down a deep well from which point it expects to serve a pipe line to supply Regina with natural gas. The contract for this well has been awarded and the necessary piping is now on route to the location. This well is to be drilled to a depth of possibly 4000 feet at a cost of approximately $100,000.

"We are also moving in material for a joint test well which we have arranged for with the Alberta Gas and Fuel company," said Mr. Ruby. "This well will be about eight miles northeast of Champion on section 9, township 16, range 23, west of the fourth meridian, where we will make a deep test well of possibly 4000 feet for oil. This well will cost about $100,000."

Mr. Ruby said there was a possibility of one or two more deep test wells being drilled, depending on certain geological work to be done. There was a likelihood of the company placing one or more geologists parties in Saskatchewan, he said.—Edmonton Journal.

P.T. Association Holds Meeting

On Wednesday, March 6th a meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association was held in the new school. The chief feature of the programme was a talk given by Miss Thompson of the Calgary Public Library on Children's Books. Those attending found it both interesting and instructive.

Miss Thompson traced the development of children's books from the old fashioned type in which the aim was principally to impart a moral to the present day books which appeal to the child's love of imagination etc.

She also contrasted the old books with cheap paper, fine print and poor pictures, with those with which we are becoming familiar with highly glazed paper large print, beautiful illustrations and attractive covers. She passed around some late edition of books which were edited in a style sure to attract the young reader.

Some of the books mentioned by Miss Thompson for children will be published next week.

IN MEMORY OF LITTLE NORMA NIELSON

Is there no light of hope for such an hour? No light to dispel its darkness? Yes thank God! The blessed world of Him who hath wrought the victory over death and the grave. Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not for such is the kingdom of Heaven. From earth's viewpoint the death of this little child is disappointment and gloom. From Heaven's viewpoint it is fraught with the beauty and glory of life eternal far.

The golden gates were opened
And heavenly angels smiled,
And with their tuneful harpsings
Welcomed the little child.

They shouted high and holy,
A child has entered in,
And safe from all temptation
A soul is sealed from sin.

They led her through the golden streets
Unto the King of Kings,
And a glory fell upon her
From the rustling of their wings.

The Saviour smiled upon her
As none on earth had smiled,
And Heaven's great glory shone around

The little earth born child.
On earth they missed the little one,
They sighed and wept and sighed,
And wondered if another such
As theirs had ever died.

Oh had they seen through those high gates
That welcome to her given,
They never could have wished their child
Back from her home in heaven.

Women's Institute Busy Afternoon

The Champion Women's Institute met on Tuesday, March 12th at the home of Mrs. G. F. Smith. Seventeen members and six visitors attended. Owing to the fact that the President, the vice President and the 2nd vice-President were all absent, the District Director, Mrs. Alcock presided.

The subject for the day was Canadian Industries and the affair took the form of an exhibition of cake, rolls and candy made from Alberta materials. Mrs. Ulrich took first prize for Devil's food cake, Mrs. Stephenson first and Mrs. Dow second for Parker House rolls, and Mrs. McDougall took first and Mrs. Wise second for chocolate fudge.

A St. Patrick air was given to things by pipes, shamrocks and harps of Old Ireland, and all enjoyed the excellent refreshments made of Canadian materials, served by Mesdames Smith and Dow.

Hotel Company Will Operate Cafe

The Savoy Cafe has been taken over and will be operated in future by the Southern Hotels Limited, a fact that will be generally appreciated by the community at large as this is one of the finest dining rooms in the rural parts of the province. The new management are satisfied that they can maintain service of quality that will appeal to both travelling public and to the surrounding district and suggest a trial of the restaurant under the new management.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

In one particular at least the farmer government led by Premier Brownlee is very like the previous party organizations and that is in the belief that the government can handle municipal or school affairs, or in fact anything else, to better advantage than the interested people themselves. There has always been a firmly rooted opinion among the ordinary people that government handling of any work of any kind meant incompetence exercised to the limit and there is little reason to change this opinion. If the telephone system or any other public utility was operated directly from the government departments the people at the head would be friends of the government. It is only when such organizations as the telephone system are managed like a privately owned concern that they become effective, and even the control of the building of new lines by the government would invariably be abused in any case. The new school legislation is evidence of the faith of the government in their own abilities rather than the farmers who elected them to office. Its effect is meant to take control from the people who pay the taxes and place it in the hands of the government hired officials. Is there any belief on the part of the farmers in this province that their representatives at Edmonton have a monopoly of all the brains in the country, or that they are guided in their decisions by some higher influence not available to the man at home? If not the attempt at centralization outlined by the new school act should be scrutinized closely before it is accepted. The new bill will only be read a second time this session because it has met with serious opposition everywhere it has been outlined. The farmers should make it a point to look into the changes proposed for this legislation is again before the legislature.

NEWS NOTES

Farmers throughout the province and organizations interested in the improvement of agricultural conditions are taking a keen interest in the campaign directed by the Department of Agriculture to encourage the use of high quality seed grain for Alberta's 1929 crop. A number of radio addresses will be given from Edmonton, Red Deer, Calgary and Lethbridge during the coming week while 10,000 posters and 50,000 leaflets are being distributed to farmers in all sections of the province. A marked improvement was noted in the quality of seed sown in 1928 and it is expected that this improvement will be still further increased as a result of the attention which is being paid to this important factor in crop production at the present time.

Alberta stands second among the provinces of the Dominion in its per capita national

A special committee appointed by the Minister of Agriculture, with the co-operation of seventy organizations in the province, is urging the use of this spring by farmers throughout the province of

in order to reduce the heavy annual losses sustained by sowing inferior seed.

Farmers can co-operate by:

1. Using registered seed wherever available.
2. Using at least high quality commercial seed.
3. Having seed tested for germination and purity.
4. Treating seed for smut.
5. Thoroughly cleaning all grain intended for seed.

Good seed will be in demand this spring. Secure your requirements early—before the supply is exhausted.

wealth, being exceeded in this respect only by British Columbia, according to figures just issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. As regards the provincial distribution of wealth, Ontario ranks first with an estimated agricultural wealth of $9,130,180,000 and Quebec second with an estimated wealth of $6,658,108,000. The western provinces, however, lead in per capita wealth. British Columbia holds first place with a per capita wealth of $3,844; Alberta second with $3,608; Saskatchewan third with $3,550, and Manitoba fourth with $2,957. These figures may be compared with $2,902 for Ontario; $2,598 for Quebec and $2,842 the per capita wealth for the whole Dominion.

Treating Potatoes For Sowing

(Experimental Farms Note)

In preparing for the spring activities in connection with treatment of seed potatoes, it is well to review some of the questions which were unanswered in the rush of affairs last year, leaving doubt and confusion as to the method used and its effectiveness. Authorities agree that seed treatment beneficial and while this operation is occasionally overlooked, the satisfactory experience of a few in so doing must not be accepted as a guide to the majority. IF IS ADVISABLE, THEREFORE, TO TREAT YOUR SEED POTATOES.

In treating seed potatoes we have any one of three chemicals from which to select for this purpose namely, hot formalin, organic mercury compounds, and corrosive sublimate. The first named gives excellent satisfaction, when used at the rate of 1 pint of commercial formalin to 121-1/2 gallons of water. The tubers are dipped in this solution for two minutes when the temperature is held at 118-124 degrees F. This is a convenient method where large quantities of potatoes are to be treated. An accurate dairy thermometer is essential. It is often convenient to haul the potatoes to a nearby creamery where steam is available to keep the temperature even.

POPOVICH & VANBESSEN

Organic mercury compounds have much to recommend them as seed potato disinfectants. They are being improved each year and it is expected that their use will render seed treatment less troublesome.

The corrosive sublimate method consists in soaking the seed potatoes 1 1/2 hours in a solution composed of 4 ounces of corrosive sublimate in 25 gallons of water. One-half an ounce of the chemical is added after each treatment of 1 1/2 hours. Investigation extending over a period of four years at the Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology, Charlottetown, have demonstrated that the solution is ineffective after the third soak. The extra half ounce added after this period is wasted and would be profitably used in preparing a new solution. Furthermore, it has been learned that the strength of this solution weakens rapidly in the presence of broken tubers and potato juice. Therefore, this source of trouble is to be avoided is success is expected. General precautions include the following (1) Dissolve the corrosive sublimate in not less than one gallon of very hot water. (2) Treat only tubers free from dirt. Throwing water on the pile will help to avoid this difficulty. (3) Use two clean casks alternately. Place made of long slides make it easy to drain the casks after each treatment. (4) Prepare new solutions after three treatments. (5) Do not treat in bags. (6) Use soft water if possible. Hard water weakens the solution. (7) Put treated seed in a clean place to dry quickly. Do not store them in the basement. (8) If the weather does not permit hilling drying three several pairs of water on the treated tubers.

Canada's Financial Position

The financial position of the Dominion of Canada, as revealed by Hon. J. A. Robb, in the budget presented by him to the House of Commons on March 1, is such as to be the source of great satisfaction to all citizens. So far as the financial position of the Dominion is concerned, it is interestingly interested in the allied subjects of Dominion finances and taxation.

During the war Canada piled up a huge debt for a nation of less than ten million people. The people assumed the heavy burden without grumbling, knowing it to be absolutely necessary, and a price that must be paid to safeguard the liberties of the world, including their own. As war expenditures enormously increased and the debt piled up, it, of course, became necessary to increase taxes, and in order to meet heavy annual interest payments upon that debt.

Even after victory was won it was necessary to still further increase the debt in order to bring our armies home from Europe, re-establish the men in civilian life, and make provision for huge sums to be paid annually in pensions. Therefore, for some years the debt continued to increase and heavy taxation to be imposed. At one time it almost seemed that, instead of the debt being decreased, it would go on increasing from year to year.

Recent budgets have, however, been most encouraging, and none more so than that of March 1, last. After meeting all expenditures on both current and capital accounts, Canada enjoys a surplus of $70,000,000, the largest ever recorded since Confederation. And this surplus for 1923-24 follows on the heels of a surplus of $67,000,000 in the preceding year. The net result is that as loans made the Finance Minister in the happy position of being able to pay them in cash and not forced to borrow by refunding loans. In other words, the debt is being steadily, even rapidly, reduced. In the fiscal year now closing, Mr. Robb paid off $33,000,000, and he has cash in hand upon which he can draw $60,000,000, which falls due next August. Thus in two years $123,000,000 is paid off the national debt, and about $60,000,000 a year saved in interest.

Mr. Robb pointed out that seven years ago, on April 1, 1922, the annual interest charge on the public debt amounted to $123,021,000, whereas on April 1, 1929, the annual charge would be $137,142,100, a decrease of $13,640,012.

This very gratifying reduction has been brought about, not by increasing taxation, but, on the contrary, in the face of a steady lessening of that burden. For example, the sales tax, which a few years ago was six per cent, is now only two per cent; the rate of postage has been reduced from three to two cents; the size of incomes exempt from taxation has been increased, and the rates payable on other reduced; the stamp taxes on receipts abolished and on cheques largely reduced; numerous reductions in customs tariff schedules have been made, and now taxes on telegrams, cables, insurance policies, railway and steamship tickets are to go.

It is not possible, of course, to remove taxation as rapidly as it was imposed during the war years, but, every year some advance in the direction made, and the size of incomes exempt from taxation has had a beneficial effect on the business of the country with the result that the lower rates have brought in revenues only slightly smaller.

Reduction in taxation has been made possible through three main causes. First, the care exercised by Mr. Robb over all expenditures which he has insisted be kept down to the lowest possible point consistent with efficiency and the expanding needs of the country. Economy has not been entered to the point where development and the needs of the country, but expenditures on non-productive services have been kept to a minimum. Second, whereas in 1920, 1921 and 1922, the Canadian National Railways were operated at a deficit amounting in these three years to no less than $148,000,000, in the year just closed, the C.N.R. not only paid all operating expenses, all interest on bonds and debentures held by the public, but accumulated a cash surplus of $6,000,000. Third, the substantial increase in the trade and commerce of Canada, assisted by reductions in taxation, and the marked development in all branches of industry, has brought larger revenues to the Government.

And the bright, promising feature of the situation is that all indications point to a continuation of these most favorable conditions throughout the next fiscal year so that the people of Canada could look forward with a large degree of confidence to next year's Budget disclosing another large reduction in the national debt and still further decreases in taxation.

Investigating Breathing Of Bees Discloses Interesting Facts About Health

To spend time investigating the question of the bee's breath may seem superfluous, but scientists have determined that besides giving a clue as to the health of the hive in the winter time and in the summer, the breathing is an index to other interesting facts about the colony. Professor G. H. Vansell, of the University of California, rigged an apparatus by which he could measure the carbon dioxide and the water vapor given off by a colony of bees in both winter and summer.

Thousands of mothers state that they know of no other medicine for little ones to equal Baby's Own Tablets—that they always keep the Tablets in the home as a preventive of childhood ailments, or if sickness does suddenly strike, they can get their feet safe with such a remedy.

Concerning the use of the Tablets, Dr. Donald F. Plouffe, of Quebec, writes: "I have nothing but praise for Baby's Own Tablets. I feel so safe with the Tablets that I feel no need to be in the house. Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but powerful laxative. They soothe the bowels, sweeten the stomach and induce healthy digestion and appetite and make the cutting of teeth easier. They are absolutely safe, being guaranteed free from all narcotics. Our Natural Resources

Wonderful National Heritage Of Untold Wealth Awaiting Development

The natural resources of Alberta are an immense treasure trove. Great industries will some day grow up in the Canadian west. Coal, oil, minerals, lumber, water power, as well as rich agricultural land await the coming of capital and organizing ability to open the Aladdin's cave of untapped natural resources. In the years ahead, before the end of this present century, agriculture may itself have been transformed into something like a manufacturing industry operated largely by industrial chemistry. In the meanwhile, there is any amount of work ahead of the province to make the most profitable use of the resources which the Dominion government are handing over as part of the west's share of the wonderful national heritage—Ottawa, Ont.

George Washington's second inaugural address contained 134 words, and is regarded as the shortest in the history of such occasions in the United States.

Western Canada Air Mail

Note In Particular Foreword's Important Development

The main estimates tabled in parliament almost certainly foreshadow the establishment this year of an air mail service in western Canada. Hearing in mind the probable cost of the Winnipeg-Calgary air mail service, the increases in the appropriations to be sought by the post office department and the national defence department can be interpreted in no other way than as foreshadowing this most important development.

The vote on the air mail service, in the estimates of the post office department is increased from $100,000 to $1,200,000 and this is more than sufficient to cover all contracts needed in the western service, likewise the increase in the vote for the establishment of air routes, in the defence department, of $133,435, is about twice the amount required to construct light beacons and emergency landing fields along the 1,200 mile route from Winnipeg to Calgary and from Regina to Saskatoon.

In other respects the main estimates are of great interest to the west. The items for the department of agriculture show very substantial increases. There is an additional vote of $137,600 for cold storage warehouses, $200,000 for the purchase of land and grants to seed farms, $150,000 for experimental farms, $180,000 for health or animals, $100,000 to establish a co-operative branch in the department, and $75,000 for Canada's share in the newly organized empire bureau of research.

Fiji Islanders Work Little and Pay No Rent For House Or Land

Fiji Islanders have a pretty easy time, little work and no rent to pay. One plant hotel along the coast, the brightest the heavy reading of the annual colonial report for 1927, which has just been issued by the British government.

"Labor conditions do not exercise any considerable influence on the Fiji plan as a whole," declares the report, "apart from affording additional social amenities. Every Fijian is a member of a land-owning unit, and has the right to use a portion of the tribal lands for planting crops for food and profit, or for raising cattle. He is also in his village, surrounded with a house of native construction, built by the community of which he is a member. Beyond performing his share of the work done for his benefit by the community as a whole, he pays no rent either for his land or his house."

Marshall Stillman Movement In States Helps Discharged Convicts To Reform

Possibly few persons could say off-hand what the Marshall Stillman Movement is, and yet it is growing rapidly, and greatly aiding in the solution of one of the most pressing social problems in the United States. That of taking care of the convict on his discharge. It strives to catch the former convict just as he leaves prison in a mood of uprightness and to give that mood an opportunity to express itself. Its "clubs" have figured as perhaps the most important feature of its work until recently, but during the last year the question of jobs for its wards has been answered more successfully than ever before by the establishment of enterprises where former convicts alone are employed. The plan has succeeded beyond expectation, and to date, has to its credit a 100 per cent. record of achievement; that is, there have been no backsliders.

Society has in the past been responsible for many first-time offenders becoming habitual criminals. This movement is an effort to equalize men who earnestly desire to do so, really to straighten out.—Chicago Science Monitor.

When Pain Comes

What many people call trifling pain often means a serious ailment. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated and food sour. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to a medical science is Phillips' Milt of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention. One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize infinitely many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never see cramps, indigestion or even a headache again when you learn the efficacy of this. Go get a small bottle of it. Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milt of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

THE CRIMSON WEST

Wild berries, dead ripe, hung on lush drooping branches.

A soft "grut-grut-kew-kew" came from the leader of a covey of willow grouse that were feeding on the tiny fruit of a cranberry tree. The call was answered by a shrill note from one of the young birds, who probably was being taught the scale.

The hummer had been one of exceptional dryness. The weather had been no rain, and a blazing hot sun had poured his fiery rays from a cloudless sky. The heavy mountain dew could not penetrate the towering, standing timber, and the carpet of needles and moss became dry as tinder. A pall of smog, from fires raging on the Coast, hung over lake and mountain.

For Wilkinson and his men these were anxious days. They covered the section between the mill and Squamish twice a day; scanning the hillsides and valleys, ever watchful, on the alert, glancing and exhorting the settlers and loggers to greater vigilance, and all the while praying fervently for rain.

Donald had posted a notice that any employee found smoking in the woods would be immediately dismissed.

Logging creates a vast amount of debris, or "slash," as it is known to the men of the woods. With the assistance of the Forestry men, Donald's crew had piled enormous heaps of slash on the hillside, awaiting a favourable opportunity to burn.

These menacing piles of brush, extending along the main road for a quarter of a mile, were a constant source of danger. Every precaution, therefore, was taken. The spaces between the mounds of brush were raked clean, the road was patrolled day and night, and pills filled with water were placed at regular intervals. Special notices stating the great danger of fire, and warning not to smoke in this area, were posted conspicuously on the road.

The mill at Cheakamus had closed. Sparks from the donkey engines had threatened the extinction of both plant and timber.

Donald with Wilkinson stood surveying the piles of dangerous waste, "If a fire starts and we can get it at once, we will be all O.K." said Wilkinson, "but if it ever gets away from us here," pointing down the road, "no human agency can stop it."

They made the rounds of the patrol to satisfy themselves that the watchmen were attending to their duties. Leaving the main road they scrambled through the tangled masses of tree-tops to ascertain how far distant the slash had been removed from the standing timber. Suddenly a tiny wisp of smoke was seen to drift from behind a fir tree at the edge of the clearing. Without comment, both men broke into a run.

Aroused by the crashing footsteps a young man, who had been lying stretched lazily on the soft moss, came quickly to his feet, a cigarette held in his fingers. His companion also smoked, he with his back against the bole of a tree a few feet distant. Fishing rods, creels, hand-ropes and the remains of a lunch lay scattered on the ground.

"Don't you know better than to smoke here?" blazed Wilkinson.

The fisherman bravely replaced his cigarette between his lips. Wilkinson's arm shot forward like a flash to pluck the offending weed from the mouth of the astonished smoker. "I wish you had a law to prevent smoking in the woods. I would take great pleasure in arresting you," he growled savagely as he planted the fire from the cigarette and ground it under his heel.

Unnoticed by the Forest Ranger, the second man removed his cigarette furtively and with a flirt of his hand thrust it behind him as he rose to his feet.

"You, too, damned efficient smoker," he said angrily, as with clenched fists he advanced belligerently.

Wilkinson was near the breaking point. The weeks of worry, the long hours of arduous toil, and the heat of sleep had frayed his nerves. "Damn you," he flared, "if it's a fight you want—"

"He broke out suddenly, his eyes wide and staring. "My God! look!" he shouted. A flare of flame shot from the spot where the cigarette had fallen. A breeze from the trees to fan the flames to a drumming roar as a pile of slash caught fire. The Red Terror was loose.

"The alarm!" cried Wilkinson, who was stunned to the road.

"Fire!" shouted Donald as he stumbled to the road.

"Fire!" repeated the nearest patrolman.

"Fire!" rang the cry down the line until the call reached the mill, and every whistle was blown in a screaming belion of sound to blanch the cheeks of these hardy men, who knew the awful terror of this devastating, devouring, fiery scourge that blazes the wilderness with smoke and ashes and takes its toll of both man and beast. Men dropped their tools and ran to answer the call.

The trapper's dogout shot swiftly across the lake.

Coming by reading in the shade of her cabin. She came to her feet at the whistle's first call for help. A moment later, seated astride a canoe, she was galloping down the hill. Every man, regardless of position, answers the call to fight fire. When a forest fire is raging the forest ranger is an absolute sovereign. He can call the lawyer from his desk or the labourer from the ditch, but when does he need to exercise this power, as every good citizen is willing to help stay the deadly scourge that blazes the wilderness with smoke and ashes and takes its toll of both man and beast. Men dropped their tools and ran to answer the call.

the hill with incredible speed. With a throbbing roar it hissed to the tree-tops and rushed up the mountain. Slifting, smoke enveloped the fire-fighters. Shouts of burning bark pelted them from above.

"To the mill!" Wilkinson shouted. "We can do nothing here."

The men at the mill fled silently to their stations, and the big hoses poured torrents of water on roof and wall. Big jets curved up the hill to drench the dry, hot earth.

In short, quick sentences Wilkinson outlined his plans.

"We will try to stop it on the north at the river, on the south with fire-breaks, and at the track on the back of back-river. On the west we have to let the fire take its course until it turns itself out on the cliff above." His voice rose in sharp command as he sent the men to their posts. Donald with twenty men under him was set to work digging a fire-break on the south side. A "fire-break" is made by spading up the leaf-mould and humus down to the mineral soil and raising all inflammable material back from each side.

The fire was advancing rapidly and the heat was terrific. Choking and gasping in the stifling, red-hot smoke, the men strove in frenzy of haste to complete the fire-break before the flames should reach it.

A deer with a fawn at her heels came bounding in terror through the screen of moss. Grouse and song birds made a common escape from a common enemy feared by all. Rabbits, wild-eyed, scuttled in fear, quipped and chirped, joined in the hurried flight. Many of these smaller birds and animals would be smothered and lost.

Comely, proud that she could be of assistance, dashed back and forth carrying messages for Wilkinson to the different forces.

EXTRACTS FROM DIRECTORS' REPORT

... After deducting amounts re-assured, the total assurances in force now amount to $1,896,915,000, or $608,959,000 in excess of the total amount in force at the end of 1927, and in addition 136,793 certificates of assurance are held by employees of corporations and firms under the guarantee.

While every field of operation contributed its full share to these improvements, the most significant element of our business in Great Britain and the United States is especially noteworthy. The generous reaction of our Company in countries served by powerful domestic institutions is particularly gratifying as testifying to widespread appreciation of our record and services.

... The amount paid to policyholders since organization, together with the amount at present held for their security or benefit, exceeds the total amount received from them in premiums by $111,170,229.10.

The strength and resources of the Company have been well further enhanced.

The net rate of interest earned on the mean invested assets, after making provision for investment expenses, has risen to 6.58 per cent. Dividend income, bonuses and stock privileges, accruing on policies, as testifying to widespread appreciation of our record and services, contributed substantially to this gratifying result.

A net profit of $11,023,849.59 has been realized from the redemption of policies which has risen to high premiums.

The securities listed in the assets have been valued at figures substantially below the values placed on them by the Government. This undervaluation of our securities represents an important safeguard against possible adverse market fluctuations, and adds to the conservatism and soundness of our policy.

We are again able to report that on the bonds and preferred stocks listed in the assets, no loss has occurred.

Baby has little upset at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner does Baby feel soothed, relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single dreadful drug. Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot put away. And it's always ready for the crueler pains of colic, or constipation, or diarrhoea; effective, too, for older children. Treatments of millions of bottles were bought last year.

British Columbia Will Legislate To Protect Investors

Legislation designed to protect investors in British Columbia mines is being introduced in the Provincial Legislature by the Government. It will force all new mining companies to file the copies of their prospectus with the mines department, so that they are issued so that the department may act immediately against any misleading statements about mineral properties.

The new law is designed to speed up the issuance of official statements and so prevent "wild cat" promotions from obtaining the public's money before they can be quashed.

ABOUT YOUR NERVES

Headaches and Other Troubles Follow When the Nerves Give Way

Nerves are delicate fibres running from the brain to all parts of the body. Some of them give us the sense of touch and feeling; others carry the will to co-ordinate, enable us to move. When we have an "attack of nerves" it means that the body is in some way out of order, the nerves have become over-sensitive so that we get neuralgia, nervous headache, sciatica, or some other nerve trouble. Sometimes the nerves get too weak to do the will of the brain, and we get trembling hands or limbs, or perhaps St. Vitus dance. The whole nervous system is needed to build up the blood, so that it may in turn feed the nervous spine and brain. The very best medicine for enriching the blood is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You cannot take them without feeling their effect. They give your appetite, improve your blood, clear your mind, and give you a tonic. I suffered for a long time from severe headache and nervous exhaustion. I tried several kinds of medicine but got no relief until I used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and these, before long, gave me complete relief. From my own experience I feel that I cannot praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills too highly, and would advise anyone who is suffering from headache or nervous exhaustion, to give them a trial, as I feel sure the results cannot be anything but satisfactory.

Take these pills as a tonic if you are not in the best physical condition and cultivate a relaxed attitude. Keep you well and strong. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at a cost of a box from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Ashtoria No Longer Drowned. The dread of renewed attacks from asthma has no hold upon these who have learned to rely upon Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. So safe do they feel that complete reliance is placed on the true specific with the certainty that it will always do all that its makers claim, you have not yet learned how safe you are with this preparation. It will cure you today and know for yourself.

Internal parasites in the shape of worms in the stomach and bowels of children sap their vitality and retard physical development. They keep the child in a constant state of unrest and, if not attended to, endanger life. The child can be spared much suffering and the mother much anxiety by using a reliable worm remedy such as Miller's Worm Powder, which are sure death to worms.

The Oil of the People—Many oils have come and gone, but Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil continues to maintain its position and increase its sphere of usefulness each year. SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE CHRISTIAN SABBATH

Golden Text: "For the Son of man is Lord even of the sabbath."—Matthew 12:8.

Lesson: Genesis 2:2-3; Exodus 20:8-11; Acts 20:7; Romans 14:4-6; Revelation 1:10.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 92:1-5, 12, 13.

Explanations and Comments

Reverence the Sabbath, Exodus 20:8-11. Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy: The rest meaning of the word rendered "hallowed" in verse 11, is "to separate"; the Sabbath day is to be separated from other days by the way it is spent. Six days shalt thou labor, and do all thy work.

There are many persons whose difficulty in keeping this fourth commandment lies right there—they are too lazy to work the six days. The commandment lays stress on working as well as upon rest. "Every man do his duty," says our Father. "The tragedy of many a life is that time is not to be spent for whose use he must render account."—The measure of a man—his apprehension of a day.

You keep the sabbath in imitation of God's rest. Do, by all means of means, and keep also the rest of the week in imitation of God's work.

The seventh day is a sabbath unto Jehovah thy God; in it thou shalt not do any work. The seventh day is to be distinguished from other days by the cessation of labor. "The sabbath was made for man," Jesus declared. The needs of body, mind and spirit require one day of rest in seven. The reason given here in Exodus for the distinction to be made between the sabbath and other days is that God, Himself, labored at creation and rested the seventh day, wherefore God hallowed it, separating it from the other days for special use.

"The setting apart of one day in seven is not an arbitrary arrangement, primarily, to the fact that the human machine will run six days with ease and regularity if it can rest on the seventh day, but it will creak and groan if it is pushed on through every day alike. The duty of rest is quite as imperative as the necessity of work. The individual or the nation that disregards this law pays the penalty."—Amory H. Bradford.

"Acia Nade"
Do you know how Canada got its name? Well, we can't vouch for the authenticity of this, but you'll have to agree it sounds reasonable.

There is a legend that the northern shores of Canada were first visited by Spanish adventurers in search of spoils. This was several centuries before Columbus. They were disappointed with the appearance of the country when they finally skirted its coast line, and explained "Acia Nade," meaning "It is barren." In some way the name clung and was subsequently adopted by the French who settled the country later. But Canada of today is as far from being barren, as Greenland is from being green.
